BROTHERS; SUSPEND
THE 2 SENTENCES*Judge Directs That Charles
and Joseph Myers Pay
Fines, Some Costs*GIVEN REPRIMANDS*Fred Barlow, Jr., Croydon, Pleads Guilty to Serious Charges

DOYLESTOWN, May 29.—Two brothers, Charles Myers, 28, and Joseph Myers, 30, both of Croydon, who were convicted of beating up Joseph Gross, 42, also of Croydon, March 23, after they learned that Gross and their brother, Thomas Myers, 32, had engaged in a Saturday night brawl, were given a suspended sentence by Judge Calvin S. Boyer, Tuesday afternoon, but directed to pay a fine of $50 each and one-half of the cost of prosecution.

The two brothers, who appeared before Judge Boyer wearing the GI emblem in their coat lapels, were convicted of assault and battery by a jury which deliberated more than a half hour.

The trial, which contained in reality four assault and battery cases, was confusing because three of the defendants were brothers—the Myers—and the other was a brother-in-law.

"You are not the law and it wasn't your duty, not even your privilege, to enforce the law as you thought," Judge Boyer warned the two brothers.

"The Court is placing you on probation for one year and giving you a suspended sentence so that you will not attempt to take the law into your own hands again because, if you do, you will be brought back into court and sent to prison," Judge Boyer said.

In a cross-action in which each man became a prosecutor and defendant alternately, Joseph Gross, 42, of Croydon, and Thomas Myers, 32, also of Croydon, were acquitted by the jury of assault and battery charges but directed to pay one-half of the costs of prosecution.

The trial, which lasted more than a day, grew out of a family brawl March 22 when Thomas Myers went to his mother-in-law's home to pick up his two-year-old daughter and a brother-in-law, Joseph Gross, who lives next door, interfered.

In the Gross and Myers families in Croydon, related by marriage, there were two family fights. On March 22 two brothers-in-law beat each other up. The next day, Sunday, two brothers of the one man beat up the other brother-in-law "for what he did to their brother."

Climaxing a family brawl, four men, three of whom are brothers and a brother-in-law, went on trial, Monday, before Judge Calvin S. Boyer, on assault and battery charges in criminal court, here.

Because of various "cross-actions," the trial is most confusing since the prosecutor in one charge becomes the defendant in another.

Jos. Gross, 42, Orchard ave., Croydon, who is prosecuting his three brothers-in-law, Thomas Myers, 32, Washington and State roads, Croydon; Charles Myers, 28, and Joseph Myers, 30, both of Croydon, was the first witness for the Commonwealth.

He testified that March 22 his brother-in-law, Thomas Myers, who was estranged from his wife, Anna, for about two weeks, came to the home of Mrs. Mary Weller, his mother-in-law, to take Myers' two-year-old daughter away.

Following a violent argument between the mother-in-law, Mrs. Weller, who is an invalid and was in a wheel chair, an aunt, a sister-in-law and Myers, the latter was

Burning Debris from Dump Sets Schmidt Bldg. Afire

A portion of the roof of a large frame building on the property of Burgess Jacob C. Schmidt, Otter and Maple street, was burned yesterday afternoon, after being ignited, it is alleged, by burning embers blown from a public dump, between Otter street and Route 13, opposite the Schmidt greenhouses.

A stiff wind blowing from the south fanned the paper and other debris on the dump into blazing torches.

Quick response on the part of firemen extinguished the blaze before it had spread to the many other buildings on the tract.

The dump, long an eyesore and a danger to the Third Ward area, was afire from top to bottom. Dense clouds of smoke rolled into the air and when the fire alarm was sounded it was believed that a big fire was raging.

CORONER'S JURY EXONERATES BOTH DRIVERS OF TRUCKS INVOLVED IN FATAL ACCIDENT LAST SEPTEMBER

Both the drivers of two tractor-trailers were exonerated of criminal negligence which might have caused the death of a man on the Lincoln Highway at Janney September 29th. The verdict of a coroner's jury released Robert Kirkpatrick, 21, Newtown, and Horace B. Allen, 36, Lantown street, Philadelphia, from responsibility for the accident. The victim was Max P. Freitag, Yardley, R. D.

An inquisition into the death of Freitag was held last night in the Municipal Building by Bucks County Coroner, J. Alfred Rigby.

There were only three witnesses heard. They were Kirkpatrick, Allen and Corporal R. D. Evans, Penna. State Police, Langhorne Barracks.

It was related to the jury how on September 29th at about 1:15 a. m., a tractor-trailer operated by Kirkpatrick and going west on the Lincoln Highway jack-knifed at the railroad underpass at Janney. Kirkpatrick told the jury that his vehicle jack-knifed when it struck the safety fence, after being forced over due to a car approaching which was traveling in the wrong direction. The vehicle was left standing about 12 feet out into the highway and pitched up on an angle.

REOPEN PEARL HARBOR?

Although written to cover quite a different matter, a recent ruling of the Washington District of the Federal judiciary may have a direct bearing on the various attempts which have been made to get to the bottom of the Pearl Harbor scandal.

This is an opinion backing up the right of Congress to seize papers in the possession of public officials—even so-called "private" papers—which are believed to be pertinent to matters Congress is investigating.

The significant words of the decision are: "If the subject matter under scrutiny may have any possible relevancy and materiality, no matter how remote, to some possible legislation, it is within the power of Congress to investigate the matter. . . . It would be intolerable if the judiciary were to intrude into the activities of the legislative branch of the government and virtually stop the progress of an investigation which is intended to secure information the Congress deems necessary."

The opinion was the outgrowth of attempts by a Congressional Committee to get access to the records of allegedly pro-Communist organizations. Contempt-of-Congress proceedings brought against these bodies, after their refusal to appear or answer questions, were appealed to the District Court, which upheld Congress for the reasons set forth in the quoted passage.

This opinion, of course, is subject to review by the U. S. Supreme Court. It will go before that body with the background of the Communist inquiry. Some attorneys are predicting that it will be upheld.

Whichever way the U. S. Supreme Court rules, the interpretation will have a profound effect upon a long-standing tug-of-war in the U. S. Government. Congress has always claimed the right to investigate the acts of the executive branch of the government, citing many passages of the Constitution (including the power of impeaching and trying the President) to back up its claim.

Early Presidents leaned over backwards to give Congress all the asserted right of investigation and review. But starting with President Jackson, various later Presidents have defied Congress' probes with varying degrees of firmness.

The quarrel between Andrew Johnson and Congress, which led to his impeachment and his escape from conviction by a single vote, revolved around this question. In recent years, particularly under the late President Roosevelt, the White House and members of the Cabinet and other governmental agencies have been emphatic, at times, in refusing to give Congress requested information.

Some of these cases have been excused on the grounds of war or other emergency conditions. But in others, the executive branch simply denied Congress' right to have the information if the custodians didn't want to furnish it. The present suit appears to be the first time that a Federal court has ruled on the question.

One obvious effect of the decision, of course, will be to re-awaken Congressional interest in the "diary" of former Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who appears to have kept a close and exceedingly intimate record of his transactions and private

FOR THE LIVING

Out of the Civil War came Memorial Day, now a day of remembrance for all those who fought to establish and preserve this Republic. Out of that conflict, too, came the deathless
words that flash instantly to mind whenever we think of the nation's soldier sons. And today the simple but deeply moving phrases of Lincoln's address at Gettysburg strike home with a new meaning.

They are as true today as they were then—perhaps even more true at this time when the greatest war in history is less than two years behind us. We cannot hallow the ground where these new dead lie, for it is already consecrated with their blood. "It is rather for us the living to be dedicated here . . . to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain. . . ."

That is our obligation. We must fulfill it. We must think and act, and be ready to accept some personal sacrifice, for the good of all.
Unless we do these things, on some future Memorial Day we shall realize that the dead did die
in vain.

HIGHER RAIL FARES

There is an important lesson in economics in the Interstate Commerce Commission's order granting an increase of approximately 10 per cent in basic passenger fares
on Eastern railroads.

The commission found this increase to be "just and reasonable."
It noted that the roads applying for relief incurred a deficit of $54,000,000 from their passenger train operations last year. It declared: "This increase is moderate in relation to the increases in wage and price levels since pre-war years."

Of course it is, and perhaps there is need to stress the point.
But it should be remembered that this adjustment would not have been necessary if the wartime economic stabilization program had worked out as planned. And it is interesting to remember why that program failed.

One reason was that it got off to a bad start when the government tried to control prices without controlling wages. Another was that wage increases were granted in basic industries, during the immediate postwar period,
even though they resulted in price
markups.

Consequently the cost of living advanced and workers in fields such as transportation insisted on pay increases to meet it. Pay increases to railroad workers could not come out of increased efficiency or profits, therefore they have been passed on to the public in higher freight rates and passenger higher rates.

What everyone should understand is that higher wages must come out of lower production costs achieved by greater efficiency or they could come out of the consumer's pocket through higher prices. There is no way to repeal that fundamental law of economics.

REOPEN PEARL HARBOR?

conversations with many illustrious fellow-New Dealers—including President Roosevelt.

Various efforts have been made by high Democratic officials to keep this bottled up. The few "leaks" have had unfortunate reactions to their party. Now, apparently, Congress can go after and reveal these memoirs—if it wishes.

But much more important is the effect of the ruling upon the Pearl Harbor investigations.

Pearl Harbor continues to be the biggest skeleton in the New Deal closet. Not all the blood was wiped up, and some of the scandal has been revealed. However, by means almost as scandalous as the worst phases of the Pearl Harbor tragedy itself, the door thus far has been kept padlocked.

There is no question whatever that the Congressional Investigating Committee failed to obtain access to all the evidence of what really happened in connection with this nation's worst military disaster.

The "winds" messages, for example, testified to at length before the Army Board in 1944, were literally "gone with the wind" by the time Congress investigated in 1945 and 1946.

Some other important papers simply vanished. They included parts of the series of "tip-off" and warning messages that would have made clear just how it happened the impending raid was discovered in plenty of time for Pearl Harbor to be alerted—but that Pearl Harbor was not warned of it until after the raid was over.

Part of this suppression traces squarely to the White House.
President Truman, as well as Democratic Leader Senator Barkley, had promised a fair, open and complete investigation.
Directly and on the floor of Congress, President Truman was notified of two points which could not fail to garble and suppress essential parts of the story.

One was the fact that a group of Army representatives went around the world interviewing witnesses who had testified before the Army Board—and who promptly thereafter retracted or changed their previous sworn testimony.

The other was that a series of executive orders from the White House were accepted in military circles as putting Army and Navy personnel on notice to suppress any information they might have which might discredit their superiors or persons in the executive branch of the national government.

President Truman took no cognizance of these protests. He refused to modify his own orders in the matter, and he made no effort to call off or punish the Army's "cover up" squad. Nor has he, at any time, made any public statement on the very obvious need for disciplining Army officers who, he it said frankly, are in a position to be accused of perjury; for having sworn to one story on one occasion, and then sworn to a contradictory story on another.

Conspicuous in the Pearl Harbor testimony was the unfortunate forgetfulness of certain key witnesses—including some of those still in high and responsible public position. These suffered gaps of memory in connection with some of the most dramatic events in American history. Probably every adult person in the United States except these few officials, could remember just where he was and what he was doing when he first heard of Pearl Harbor.

But, under interrogation on deeply hidden mysteries in the Pearl Harbor scandal, these gentlemen swore they had no recollection of their whereabouts at that time.

That the Congressional Committee was able to learn any of the essential facts, in view of the circumstances, was remarkable. That it was able to learn enough so that an astute analyst such as Henry Morgenthau could reconstruct a connected account is almost miraculous. (See his book, "Pearl Harbor.")

But there is much of the story still untold, much of the conjectured outline which has been falsely denied and many speculations which lack verification.

At some time, Congress ought to make another effort to get to the bottom.

Properly, this should be done before two other things come to pass—first, before the Army-Navy Merger Bill is brought to a final vote; and second, before the President comes up for re-election in the campaign next year.

Perhaps the court ruling will open the door to the finishing of this unpleasant but necessary task.

 law, Mrs. Betty Weller, who is also separated from her husband, the child's mother and father, two of the defendants, who are brothers-in-law, had a "free-for-all."

Gross testified the fight took place in the Weller home, but denied that he struck Myers with a club.
 Myers, who said he was sitting in the cab of his truck, testified Gross hit him with a baseball bat or a shovel handle.

The next day, two of Thomas Myers' brothers, Charles and Joseph Gross, drove to the home of Joseph Gross and "beat him up."

Two Bristol doctors, Dr. George B. Hood, who treated Thomas Myers, and Dr. H. Doyle Webb, who treated Gross, testified as to the extent of bruises, lacerations and "black eyes."

Mrs. Elizabeth Weller, Orchard avenue, Croydon, who is separated from her husband, testified Thomas Myers "punched my brother in the face first." "My sister (Thomas' wife) beat her husband over the back with a broom handle," Mrs. Weller said.

Mrs. Ethel Gross, wife of Joseph Gross, testified she took the little Myers girl to her home which was practically next door.

James Gross, 15, son of Joseph Gross, testified that he saw his father down on the ground and that Charles and Joseph Myers were punching him. "My father had no time to swing or block," said the youth, who was cleaning stables

when the two Myers men came to beat him up.

Leo Riley, a neighbor, who is deaf but was standing at his window in his Croydon home, testified he saw Charles and Joseph Myers drive up to Gross' home and that the driver of the car punched Gross from the front and the other brother hit him on the back.

Constable Joseph Sander, of Bristol township, made the arrests of the two brothers-in-law and the three brothers.

Joseph Myers, Croydon, taking the witness stand when the trial was resumed, testified that Gross called him a vile name and struck at him first.

Charles came over to break it up. Charles Myers, 28, Croydon, corroborated his brother's testimony.

Fred Barlow, Jr., of Croydon, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to fornication and bastardy, and adultery.

Barlow was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, and a fine of $100. A prison sentence of six months is to be suspended on condition that the fine and costs be paid within three months. The Court also ordered Barlow to pay $71 lying-in expenses to Marie Bowers, and to pay $5 a week support from the day of birth of a child on April 7, 1947, until the child reaches the age of 18. The defendant was also placed on probation.

George M. Blair, Bristol, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to fornication and bastardy. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed and $5 a week toward the support of a child.

Social Affair Marks Pastor's Anniversary

Members of Zion Lutheran Church gathered in the parish house last evening in observance of the first anniversary of the pastor, the Rev. Paul H. Gleichman. Entertainment consisted of group singing, musical selections, and the showing of pictures related to the life of the local church and community. Refreshments were prepared and served by women of the congregation. A living room chair was presented as an anniversary gift to the Rev. and Mrs. Gleichman.

In addition to the observance of the pastor's anniversary, the gathering represented the first in a series of social events planned for the congregation. These events, as announced by the church council, will take place in the parish house which is being thoroughly reconditioned under the direction of the parish house committee, of which Fred J. Veigel is chairman. Alterations have provided for a kitchen and social hall, as well as a meeting place for the adult and young people's departments of the Sunday School.

The basement is being prepared as headquarters for Troop 42 of the Boy Scouts, and will include recreational facilities later on. A service of re-dedication is planned for the near future.

Why Should I Buy Ground NOW?

AS AN INVESTMENT. You are buying an investment in the future, YOUR FUTURE.

AS TO PRICE: Prices at Glenn-Ashton Farms are less than the cost of ground in this same vicinity 5 years ago which had no facilities or planning such as we have here.

IT IS ONLY REASONABLE to assume that as home building becomes more active, the demand for ground will increase, taking with it the price of ground. Is it good business to wait or to buy now?

WE SAY, BUY NOW while ground prices are right and the selection is the best.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE, our office is open daily and Sunday from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Stop out and see us.

50 Assemble in Church To Honor Young Couple

NEWPORTVILLE, May 29 — A miscellaneous shower was arranged for Miss Jacqueline Lowrie and Jesse E. Headley by the Cheerful Workers and young people's groups in Newportville Community Church — Presbyterian on Tuesday evening.

The basement was attractively decorated, the tables set in U-fashion. Over the table for the bride and groom was suspended a white umbrella, and over other tables, pink umbrellas. Pink streamers festooned the room. The tables were decorated with bowls of pink and white flowers and tall white candles. A wedding cake topped with a bride and groom formed the centerpiece on the center table. On the platform, a bower was made of pink crepe paper with icicles simulating a shower, and underneath, a table was laden with gifts.

A musical program was as follows: Vocal solo, Miss Frances Mattocks; solo, Susan Perpetua; solo, Miss Naomi Lowrie; quartet, the Misses Frances, Janet, Ruth and Marion Mattocks; vocal duet, the Misses Elsie Oldham and Ruth Mattocks; vocal selection, Miss Jane Wimmersberger and the Mattocks sisters.

Reunion of Church Group Is Held at Zepp Residence

A reunion of individuals who made up the group of young people of Lehigh Avenue Baptist Church, Philadelphia, during the years 1932-39, took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Zepp, Winder Village, on Sunday.

There were 69 who gathered from Woodbury, N. J.; Baltimore, Md.; Philadelphia, Andalusia and Bristol. Some had not seen each other for as long as nine years, and the affair afforded opportunity for a reunion and meeting of each other's children.

A picnic supper was served on the lawn. Games were played, and in the evening the folks gathered about a camp fire, and songs were sung. Several made short speeches. Motion pictures were also enjoyed.

Arthur Schaumburg, Sr., Andalusia, extended an invitation for the group to meet at his home, The Schaumburg home, in years past, was a meeting place for the young folks. The Schaumburgs' son, the Rev. Elwood E. Schaumburg, pastor of Chestnut Hill Baptist Church, extended an invitation for the group to attend a Sunday evening service there in the fall.

We thank Thee, dear heavenly Father, for this Memorial Day season and for those who have made the supreme sacrifice on the altar of our country. We are grateful to Thee for the gift of memory which links the past with the present and serves us as an inspiration for the future. Help us, our Father, to bear in mind what they did. Teach us the art of peace that their death may not have been in vain. Help us to enrich our memory with their deeds so that we may appreciate more and more our country, for which they gave their all. BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 16 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eye, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

VOLTZ CONTINUES TO LEAD ITS DIVISION

Led by the wonderful defensive playing of Wendell Tazik, the Voltz-Texaco aggregation continued to lead its division of the Bristol Suburban League by upsetting the Langhorne Legion, 5-2, on the latter's field.

Tazik made 10 stops playing his shortstop position and several of these were of the hard variety and good handling of the ball prevented Langhorne runs from crossing the plate.

"Sammy" Kershaw pitched his third mound win for the sixth ward team and in doing so gave up six hits. The losing pitcher was "Charlie" Carter, who was touched for eight hits. Three of the winners' blows went to Alex Dewsnap who had a double and two singles.

"BADIES" LOSE TO ROHM & HAAS BY SCORE OF 10 TO 2

Boilermakers, After Winning Five Straight, Stopped By Chemical Workers

HANSEN ON MOUND

De Witt Led the Attack For The Winners With Stick

After winning five straight, the Badenhausen team was stopped by Rohm & Haas last evening on the township field. Final score was: Rohm & Haas, 10; Badenhausen, 2.

Ten hits were made by the chemical mixers and most of these came while "Jack" Hansen was doing the mound work for the boiler-makers. Hansen was replaced by Martindell in the sixth inning. The Rohm & Haas team tossed away several runs on poor base-running.

Leading the winners' attack was Wally DeWitt, who slammed out a single, double, and triple. On his three-bagger, he was out trying to stretch the hit into a home run.

The Badenhausen team collected but six hits off Paul Cervellero, three coming in the last inning. Of the six hits, Hansen had two doubles.

"Kenny" Clifton played a nice fielding game for the losers, while Jesse Vanzant caught a fine game for Rohm & Haas.
